Internet Research and Information Literacy: Effective Strategies and Cautionary Tales

2011 19-22 min each Cambridge Educational

Thanks to the Internet, a virtual cosmos of information is at our fingertips. But does more equal better when helpful and not-so-helpful content are equally abundant? How is online propaganda different from traditional propaganda? What solutions do we have to the growing problem of plagiarism? This series illustrates best practices for viewers who are learning to apply academic standards and scholarly research methods to the rapidly evolving online world. A viewable/printable instructor’s guide is available online.

Effective Internet Search: Basic Tools and Advanced Strategies

This video introduces strategic, study-related online search methods that viewers may not be familiar with, especially if they’re accustomed to the more recreational side of the Internet. Outlining ways to formulate initial questions about a topic, the program offers examples of frequently used search engines (from Google to specialized databases) and how to take advantage of them using keywords, quotation marks, Boolean operators, nesting, wildcard and truncation symbols, and other typed-in directives. Result-oriented topics are also featured, including: the differences between primary, secondary, and tertiary sources; the best criteria for confirming the legitimacy of a particular Web site; and helpful techniques for searching within a site.

Recognizing Online Propaganda, Bias, and Advertising

While their motives aren’t always evil, people who bend the truth don’t usually do so for the greater good, either. The online world is no exception—in fact, it’s a paradise for purveyors of hype, pseudo-journalism, and intellectual snake oil. This video explores ways to identify bias and propaganda on the Internet and sift through the various influences, such as political or corporate interests, that may be behind some Web content. Spotting key aspects of propaganda and bias-driven writing, such as the use of glittering generalities, name-calling, or card-stacking, the program also presents important tips for differentiating between advertising and genuinely useful, scholarly material—a task made increasingly difficult by cleverly disguised sponsorship. Web savvy is further developed through discussions of URL suffixes (.com, .org, etc.) and what they indicate.

Plagiarism 2.0: Information Ethics in the Digital Age

For a generation raised on the ideology of “open source” and the ability to quickly cut and paste, the concept of plagiarism may seem foreign or passé. And that, of course, can lead to trouble. This video examines the behaviours that constitute plagiarism, their consequences, and the best ways to avoid them. Showing how accidental copying as well as willful plagiarism can occur, the program lays out the dangers of cheating, then illustrates the pitfalls of non-attribution and patch writing while showing how to properly attribute and paraphrase a lengthy quotation. Copyright, trademark, and intellectual property concepts are clearly discussed, in addition to potential sources of non-copyrighted material. Common citation formats (APA, MLA, Bluebook, etc.) are listed along with the suggestion that the student confer with his or her instructor about them.

Me and My 500 “Friends”: Staying Safe on Social Networks

2011 CC 20 min

Human Relations Media

This timely program provides teens with an essential safety primer on using social networks such as Facebook. Through interviews with experts and real-life young people, teens learn that social networks can be a useful tool for communication and connection, but also pose significant risks. Experts discuss how harmful rumours can be spread quickly as well as the danger of cyberbullying, or harassment that occurs through the internet, cell phones, and other technology. The risks of “sexting,” or posting sexually explicit images or materials online, are also covered. Viewers see how “phishers” and identity thieves can glean private information from what you post on social profiles; finally, the risk of encountering sexual predators is emphasized. The program provides important, easy-to-follow rules for keeping information—and oneself—safe while using social networks. #600569DV-PS2 $189: DVD, PDF guide & student handouts.

Think b4 u Post: Your Reputation and Privacy on Social Networking Sites

2011 CC 22 min

Films for the Humanities

A person normally wouldn’t shout out the details of a secret hookup or give a credit card to a total stranger and say “Max it out for me.” Yet as this video playfully points out, in effect that’s what people do when they post indiscreetly on social networking sites or are duped by phishing scams. Think b4 u Post uses a light touch to deliver some very serious information on how people can protect their reputation and guard their privacy online while still having a good time using social networking sites. On the “reputation” side, viewers are advised to keep their postings positive, remember that “intended readers” (friends) are only a subset of “actual readers” (friends, teachers, prospective employers...), and more. And on the “privacy” side, viewers are made aware of the consequences of cyberbullying and defamation as well as steps they can take to safeguard their personal information and avoid online/offline predators. Data mining is also discussed. #394126DV-PS2 $109.95: DVD, web guide.

Dangers of Social Networking Video Clip Collection

2010 23 min

Films for the Humanities

No one doubts the power of social media to create positive connections among people who might otherwise never meet. But that same power has an ominous side. It can draw together individuals who should, in fact, not meet—such as predatory adults and gullible minors. It can facilitate bullying, emotional trauma, and cybercrime. And it can be highly addicting. This collection of five ABC News segments examines the issues in ways that are sure to spark discussion and further study. Contains mature content. Viewer discretion is advised. Clip duration ranges from 2 to 6 minutes.

The Sexting Crisis Video Clip Collection

2010 34 min

Films for the Humanities

Immersed in technology and caught up in the impulse of the moment, a teenager sends a sexually explicit text message to one of his or her classmates—and ruins a life in a matter of seconds. Exaggeration? Sadly, no. This collection of six ABC news segments makes clear to viewers the dangers involved in what has become known as “sexting”—a form of spontaneous free expression which, all too often, becomes a digital avenue for bullying, harassment, and self-destructive behaviour. Parents, educators, legal authorities, and teens all take part in these illuminating and sometimes disturbing stories. Contains mature content. Viewer discretion is advised. Clip duration ranges from 2 to 10 minutes.

Video clips include:

- Sexting and Teens:
- The Consequences of Sexting
- Sexting Spreading Among Teens
- Teen Sex Gone Viral
- Parents Discuss Sexting with Teens:
- Parental Text Control

The Story of 1: How a Single Digit Created Math and Changed the World
2005 60 min

Films for the Humanities

The humble digit 1 has in actuality been the prime mover in creating the entire concept of mathematics—and a surprisingly large force in the shaping of world history. This very clever video hosted by the irrepressible Terry Jones of Monty Python fame tells the entire story of 1 and how, with 0, it has come to dominate society through digital technology. Landmark developments—addition and subtraction in Sumer, measurement in Egypt, geometry in Greece, Roman numerals in Rome, “Arabic” numbers in India, and more—are spotlighted. In addition, pivotal figures including Pythagoras, Archimedes, al-Khuwarizmi, Fibonacci, and Leibniz are introduced.

The War of 1812

2011 CC 120 min PBS

For two and a half years, Americans fought Against the British, Canadian colonists, and native nations. In the years to come, the War of 1812 would be celebrated in some places and essentially forgotten in others. But it is a war worth remembering—a struggle that threatened the existence of Canada, then divided the United States so deeply that the nation almost broke apart. Some of its battles and heroes became legendary, yet its blunders and cowards were just as prominent. The film shows how the glories of war became enshrined in history – how failures are quickly forgotten – how inconvenient truths are ignored forever.

With stunning re-enactments, evocative animation and the incisive commentary of key experts, The War of 1812 presents the conflict that forged the destiny of a continent.

Note: A relatively unbiased production - discusses American, British, Canadian and Native perspectives.

2011 CC 360 min/3 discs PBS

PROHIBITION, a three-part documentary series, directed by Ken Burns and Lynn Novick, explores the extraordinary story of what happens when a freedom-loving nation outlaws the sale of intoxicating liquor--and the disastrous unintended consequences that follow. This utterly relevant cautionary tale raises profound questions about the proper role of government and the limits of legislating morality.

When the country goes dry in 1920, after a century of debate, millions of law-abiding Americans become lawbreakers overnight. Here are the stories of the petty whiskey-jobbers, big-time bootleggers, and brutal gangsters; the flappers who danced the Charleston in New York speakeasies; and the families who stomped grapes in basements and made moonshine in backyards. But beyond the cocktails, this is a darker story about what happens when lobbyists divide the country with wedge issues; the contempt unleashed by smear campaigns; and the perils of unfunded mandates.

What Would You Do? Series 2: Instinctive Reactions and What They Reveal

2011 Films for the Humanities

We all know that drugs and alcohol heighten the chances of violence, sexual aggression, and deadly accidents. And we know that discrimination against race, disability, or sexual orientation is illegal as well as utterly wrong. But when we're suddenly confronted with these kinds of abuses, what do we do? What would you do? This two-part ABC News series captures raw responses to troubling situations with the help of actors and hidden cameras. Whether compelled to take action or to mind his or her own business, each unwitting participant makes a split-second decision—one that is often as emotionally revealing as it is surprising.

Confronting Drug and Alcohol Abuse

A young woman uses the restroom at a busy restaurant. While she's away, her date cracks open a small capsule and spikes her drink with white powder. Onlookers are aghast—but do any of them take action? Truth be told, the young man and woman are actors in a hidden-camera scenario created to find out how unsuspecting observers will react. Other provocative set-ups featured in this compilation of ABC News segments: a bar customer attempting to take home a seemingly drunk woman he has just met; an apparently tipsy woman trying to persuade sober passersby to breathe into her car's breathalyzer so she can run an errand; and two different alcohol-drenched hazing sessions involving male, then female, initiates. Each segment gives viewers the chance to ask themselves: What would you do? (48 minutes)

Taking a Stance against Racism and Discrimination

They're an average American family at a typical American restaurant. They also happen to be Hispanic (not to mention that the restaurant is situated in Tucson, Arizona, a hub of our nation's ongoing immigration debate). From out of nowhere, an off-duty security guard asks to see their documentation, and as he grows more insistent, the other diners nervously consider what steps, if any, to take. It's a scenario drawn from real life, no doubt, but in this case, the guard and the family are actors in a hidden-camera ABC News segment—one designed to spark reactions from onlookers. Several other staged dilemmas are also included here: Jewish customers face an anti-Semitic cashier, hearing-impaired job seekers aren't allowed to fill out applications, an HIV-positive man is subjected to verbal attacks, and an African-American man is accosted for having a white daughter. ### Pardon My Postpartum: The Depression You're Not Supposed to Have

2010 48 min

Films for the Humanities

With an edgy visual style that reflects the emotional roller-coaster many new mothers experience, this program transcends misconceptions about postpartum depression and the initial months of parenthood. Viewers gain insight into a condition that frequently affects mothers with no prior history of mental or mood disorder issues, and who are often left isolated, misunderstood, and untreated. Expert commentators include Dr. Lori Ross, a research scientist at the University of Toronto-affiliated Women's College Hospital Research Institute, and Karen Liberman, executive director of the Mood Disorders Association of Ontario.

“Odd, sarcastic and with a dash of sitcom melodrama, ‘Stock & Awe’ mixes basic financial advice with humour to teach viewers about a world where the TSX and Dow Jones are consulted like daily horoscopes. One of their financial tips: keep a separate wallet for receipts -- just not a Louis Vuitton wallet. The show also uses street interviews to highlight how many of us lack basic financial knowledge. Advice is offered, and hopefully future shows will move from the financial basics to more detailed tips.” – Walleepop Canada

GICs, TFSAs, ETFs -- it may seem like a lot of jargon, but these acronyms can make the difference between living paycheque to paycheque and getting the most out of your money. In this series produced by Canada’s Business News Network (BNN), host Hilary Doyle mixes business TV and the world of sitcoms in ‘Stock & Awe.’ As a fictionalized version of herself in Stock and Awe, Doyle plays a TV business reporter who doesn’t know much about business. When a friend finally points out the shocking precariousness of Doyle’s personal position, she vows to become more knowledgeable and secure her financial future. From socialite to social pariah, Hilary Doyle, rogue business reporter, is living proof that economics isn’t all theoretical. If this girl is to maintain both career and shoe collection, if she is to retire before joining the century club, if she is to move out of storage and replace her lawn chair with an actual mattress, this woman will need a miracle, a dead aunt, and an army of financial experts (who’ll work for free), to rocket her out of the red and restore her rep. Calling on some of the brightest minds on Bay Street, Hilary sets forth with determination, a pre-dawn show, and a propensity for dance numbers, to make sense of the markets, the indexes, stocks, bonds, diversification, RRSPs, TFSAs, mutual funds and ETFs, trading, timing, taxation, strategy, commodities, ethics, psychology, and everything else you’ve feared you might never really understand, but pretend at dinner parties that you do.

World Food Crops: Grains and Legumes

Grains and legumes feed half of the world's growing population and also make fascinating subjects for propagation. Volume Seven covers the propagation methods for the major cereal crops (including "The Big Three") as well as legume crops, such as soybeans, peanuts and lentils. Harvesting, threshing, winnowing and grinding techniques are demonstrated by both hand tools and modern machines.

#SLP049DV-PS2 $119: DVD

World Food Crops: Tropicals

Volume Eight presents the reproduction techniques as well as cultural information for food staples grown in tropical regions. These economically-important crops feed much of the world's population yet most of these plants are practically unknown in North America. The program shows the easiest ways to propagate tropical food staples such as cassava, taro, sorghum, true yams, plantains and bananas.

#SLP050DV-PS2 $119: DVD

World Food Crops: Roots

Roots are one of the most nutritional foods on earth, still so many easy-to-grow and delicious root crops never make it to the market. This program presents step-by-step propagation techniques for common as well as unusual root crops grown and eaten throughout the world.

What Are You Thinking?: Conferring in Reader's Workshop*Patrick A. AllenFor Grade 3-5 Teachers 2011 96 min
Stenhouse Publishers*

Have you ever wanted to sit down beside a master teacher and see how he or she confers? In this DVD, join Patrick Allen, author of Conferring: The Keystone of Reader's Workshop, as he confers with nine different students over the course of two days.

Sitting down one-on-one with a student in a conference is the best way to differentiate instruction so all students can learn the comprehension skills and strategies that wise readers use and possess. Patrick demonstrates how to connect with readers, how to monitor their progress through individual records, and, perhaps most important, how to make children love books and reading while honoring their individuality. Let's face it: conferring in reader's workshop is hard work. There is no script or program that plans for all the ways a conference can be managed.

Throughout What Are You Thinking? Patrick provides a strong model for navigating the open-ended possibilities that each reader brings to a reading conference. In the lesson on Determining Importance in Text, we see Patrick model how readers decide what is essential in the text they are reading and then watch as he confers with his students about the decisions they are making while reading. Each of the nine conferences has a different instructional focus, including vocabulary, appropriate text choice, expository text, and reading with a writer's eye. This DVD will leave you ready to confer with readers in your classroom!

Paraeducators: Quality Supervision and Training2009 CC 69 min (2 disks)National Professional Resources*

From one of the leading authorities, Dr. Nancy French, comes a comprehensive and powerful two-set DVD for the effective supervision and training of paraeducators. In order to most effectively utilize paraeducators, schools need to provide an environment where teachers "coach" and paraeducators "learn" to better understand their roles and responsibilities. This DVD program addresses the supervision and support of paraeducators as they work in:

- Inclusive/co-teaching classrooms
- Response To Intervention (RTI) and data collection roles
- Implementing instructional accommodations modifications
- Student supervision and behaviour monitoring

This DVD set is cost-effective for the training of both teachers and paraeducators.

Oops, Wrong Planet: Understanding Asperger's Syndrome2008 55 min Films for the Humanities*

Einstein, Beethoven, Mozart, Van Gogh: all displayed symptoms of Asperger's syndrome. But not every person with Asperger's is a genius. This program follows a self-described eccentric who, after discovering he matches up with the general Asperger's profile, sets out on a quest to learn all he can about the disorder, and whether he truly does have it. Along the way, he speaks with author Michael Fitzgerald, Professor Temple Grandin, Professor Alan Snyder, Wired magazine's Steve Silberman, Professor Simon Baron-Cohen, and a number of children and adults with AS about topics ranging from Asperger's traits, to possible causes of the condition, to "Geek Syndrome" and the AQ Test. A warm and understanding look into the very different world of autism spectrum disorders.
